Hi Slugger,

This is really what you call delayed action. I'm sorry as hell, but can offer no excuses other than I haven't had a hellua lot a' free time nor a lot of ambition. I guess I just like to receive better than to send.

I am not sure, but I don't believe you'll be gone — nor will you be going for a long time if things turn out as they look to be. There is even a wild rumor that Cadets are going to be returned to in-active status in 30-60 days. It is time that some cadets were sent home last month, but I don't know what the circumstances were exactly. It's just a rumor so far, but a lot of speculation has been made about it. Walter Winchell mentioned something to the effect that within 60 days cadets in the air corps were going to receive the surprise of their lives. Just exactly what he meant, I don't know, but it must come off before so very long as he said that 3 or so weeks ago.

Damn it anyhow, I'm broke again. I lost my last $25 in a crap game a couple days ago & now am on borrowed dough. I was going to go to Canton last week-end, but I re-sprained my ankle & had to call it off. I s'pose you know I either lost or had my parker-51 pen & a pr. of $14 sun glasses swiped? I've been running into a streak of bad luck that'd frost the balls right off your hat Captain.

This field is really becoming a crock of shit tho. — Chicken shit they call it. We're treated like low-class monkeys & called too valuable to go up in planes. They kick our asses all over & then make us stay in this damn camp most of the time. I'm doin' a good job a griping, huh? Well, everyone is really pissed off down here. Guess that's why.

I'm on the section baseball team & we have a game tomorrow nite. We have to go into Bryan to play. I'm gonna get ahold of some nice little dish & ketch up on lost time one of these days. I mean really ketch up too. Tell that goddam Klinefelter he can go take the running jump if he won't right me with him. I don't know what the hell the trouble is, but I sure don't like being kept in the dark. Make that bastard to write me!

Just like Before, Small-Fry.
